[Correspondence Daily News. Sudden Death of a Citizen of Northampton--Northampton Court--The Crops of Hertford, Bertie and Northampton. RICH SQUARE, N. C.,)

Sept. 22, 1873. } It is with sadness that I chronicle the strange and sudden death of Jiles Joyner, Esq., who died on Thursday last. On Thursday morning he seemed to be in perfect health, and visited a store several miles distant, and returned, he said, with the intention of going to the Roanoke fishing (sturgeoning.) Late in the following evening he was discovered by some negroes, lying flat in his canoe, drifting down the river. They immediately obtained a canoe and set out to overtake the drifting one. On reaching it, they found a lifeless man within, without any indications of life being taken, save by an Omnipotent hand. They immediately carried him to a neighboring house and made the facts known. A jury of inquest was then summoned to meet early on Friday morning. The day was spent in search of evidence and facts, and closed without a decision. Saturday likewise. But early on Sunday, they decided that "He died a natural death." There is an unusual amount of sickness in this county. The Northampton Court was last week interrupted as the Judge was unable to preside on account of sickness. Our people all seem to be glad of the exchange of Watts for Albertson. The latter seems to be very popular among our people. Much business has already been transacted by his Honor, and at present both State and civil dockets are full. The most important cases have yet appeared, are the Branch murder case, of this county; the Savage murder case of Halifax county, and the suit of Johnson vs. S. & R. R. R., which I learn was decided in favor of the former. I have been recently traveling in the counties of Bertie and Hertford, and find the crops there, as in this county, materially damaged. The late rains have greatly injured it, in all sections. In places the rust has made its appearance, while in all cases it is backward and has shed many of its bolls. The corn and potato crops are generally good. Cotton is opening very fast in all sections, and many are busy picking out. The people of this community are glad to learn that the Petersburg R. R. Company will place a steamer on the Roanoke soon to carry off their produce. And allow me to suggest to them, in conclusion, that it is but a short distance to build a Railroad to make connection from Chowan river to their road at Garysburg. Our people are in for it, and it would doubtless prove very beneficial to both parties,

Coroner Walker summoned a jury of inquest, before whom the mother and grandmother of the child testified that the floor of the sink was in a dangerous condition, and that the attention of the owner of the property, Mrs. Wilkinson, had been twice called to its condition, and she hed failed to have the Grounds can take advantage of it repaired. Prof. McIver, the Superintendent of Public Instruction, has just returned from a visit to some of the eastern counties in the interest of education. The Prof. is now engaged in getting up his report, to be submitted at the approaching session of the

We are glad to learn that Captain C. J. Iredell, formerly of this city, has been promoted from Teller of the Carolina National Bank, Columbia, S. C., to Cashier. This promotion is a deserved one we know, as Capt. I. has always borne the reputation of a No. 1 business man and a gentleman of irreproachable integrity.

The Board of City Commissioners meet this evening. We understand that the proposition of Capt. Brain to pave Metropolitan Market house with the Schillinger pavement will be discussed. If the terms of the proposition are at all liberal we hope it will be accepted, as it will add greatly to the appearance of the building. We believe that the front and side walks are included in the proposition.

FEARFUL ENCOUNTER WITH A BURGLAR.-Mr. Frank Harding, of Binghampton, N. Y., writes from Vienna of a thrilling encounter with an Italian thief, who entered his sleeping-room in the night time, while he was sojourning at the Austrian capital. He was awakened by the thief just as he had stepped over the window sill. The intruder began examining everything in the room, and when he came upon Harding's watch and other valuables, he began to help himself. Harding thought it time for action, and jumping quickly from his bed, he seized the thief by the throat. The rogue seemed to enjoy the choking, and took it quietly until he found an opportunity for a quick movement, which sent Harding back upon his bed. He then began feeling for his stiletto, which alarmed Harding somewhat, and made him wish that his revolver was not in the bottom of his valise. His position was anything but desirable, and making another desperate effort, he was again getting the better of his uninvited guest, and commenced to deal him a few blows upon the head from an arm in no wise weak, when he freed his right hand and dealt Harding a well-directed blow upon the forehead. He straggered back, and the fellow dodged out of the door, out to a balcony, and from that jumped down some 14 feet into

NORTH CAROLINA JOURNAL OF EDUCATION.—We are glad to learn that the friends of education in this State are determined to push this enterprise. It will be published in this city, by contract, and the first number will make its appearance about the first of November. In order that this valuable periodical may be within the reach of all, the subscription price has been placed at the low sum of $1 per annum. Persons de-siring to subscribe are requested to forward their address and price of subscription to Messrs. Gorman, Mar-com & Lee, Publishers, Raleigh, N.

The Superintendent of Public Instruction, Prof. Alex. McIver, has been selected as Editor; Theo. H. Hill, Literary Reviewer, and Prof. S. J. Stevens, Reviewer of School Books. All of these gentlemen are eminently qualified to fill ably the positions for which they have been selected.

In order to show the great amount of talent which will be brought to bear to make this journal extensive in its sphere of usefulness, and competent to wage a vigorous war upon the lethargy which has heretofore existed in our midst in regard to educational matters, we give some of the names of those who will make regular contributions:

Hon. W. H. Battle, Rev. B. Craven, Rev. T. H. Pritchard, Rev. N. Ray, Rev. W. M. Wingate, Prof. W. C. Doub, Dr. S. S. Satchwell, Kemp P. Battle, Esq., Prof. Chas. Phillips, Mrs. C. P. Tomlinson, Esq., Rev. H. B. Blake, Miss Amy Bradly, Dr. E. L. Perkins, Rev. T. M. Jones, Hon. W. B. Rod-man, J. H. Mills, Esq., and a num-ber of others. As will be seen this list comprises names of high distinc-tion in the learned professions and of tion in the learned professions and of prominence in the field of letters.

"In order to place it within the reach of all, the subscription price has been fixed below the cost of publication, and we trust that every friend of ed-ucation throughout the State will aid in its circulation. "Something must and should be done, and there is no time so propitious as the present. Already the public eye is directed to our unfortunate condition; the last census report marks in dark colors our low position in intellectual culture as compared with other States. It is, and should be, mortifying to us as citizens that our State-one of the original thirteen which framed the general government-should have made so little progress in general education. We would not, however, be understood to depreciate the difficulties under which she has labored-her great pecuniary losses, and the immense untutored population which have recently been elevated to citizenship. It may not be out of place to state in this connection, that we learn that Mrs. Spencer will contribute a series of papers giving a history of the part this State bore in the late war, and that Hon. We hope the work will now commence in good earnest, and be prosecuted with such vigor that soon our citizens will look proudly upon the walls of a palatial building. With this building, the Masonic Temple, the improvement on the Yarborough House, and the proposed structure on the site ofthe store now occupied by S. D. To our Western Friends.-We would earnestly urge upon our friends in the Western portion of the State the importance of placing upon ex-hibition, at the approaching State Fair, samples of the great products of those sections. Western North Caro-lina is rich in its horses and cattle, in its grain, grasses and fruits, and would it not be well to let the thousands who will be here, who may have never visited the verdant valleys or viewed the grandeur of the mountains of that section, see what can be grown in our own State? Let the whole West be heard from at the Fair, and let every one feel an interest in this exhibition.

SERIOUS AFFRAY.-Late Monday night in Clifton's Saloon, on Fayetteville street, J. M. Forest and Chas. Lang, an employee of the establishment, became involved in a quarrel. Return of the President-An Order to Purchase all Bonds Offered-Panic Believed to be at an End-Secretary Richardson Elated.

A special to the Richmond Dispatch of yesterday morning gives the following particulars as to the workings of the late money panic:

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.-The return of the President this morning, and his consultation with Secretary Richardson and other members of the Cabinet, resulted in an order to forward to New York to-night $20,-000,000, with directions to Assistant Treasurer Hillhouse, in that city, to purchase bonds as fast as they may be offered, without any regard as to the amount to be purchased. Before noon, the excitement had materially subsided here, and frequent telegrams from New York to the President and Secretary Richardson, congratulating them upon the result of their action, showed that the panic was at an end there. Among these telegrams, was one from Vice-President Wilson to Secretary Richardson, congratulating him and urging him to stand like a

Mr. Richardson seemed much elated over the result, and declared that the Treasury had plenty of money to purchase all bonds. He thought there would be no disastrous result from the panic, as the country was never in a more prosperous condition. This he said, was shown by the fact that there had been no request for aid from any quarter but New York, except some few solicitations from Philadelphia and Washington; but from the latter cities they were very slight. From the South or West there was not a single appeal.

Richardson is indisposed to say much upon the crisis, and asserts that when it is necessary for him to take any action he will do so without any flourish of trumpets, as the Government is right in this matter and he does not propose to make much fuss about coming to the relief of the market. As to the appeals of the bankers, he takes but little notice, dewinds veering to the north and north-west, with clearing but partly cloudy weather.

J. J. LITCHFORD.

THE Salisbury Watchman and the Fayetteville Eagle have both recently entered upon new volumes. It affords us pleasure to witness the evidences of prosperity, progress and enterprise observable in our weekly papers. In ability and energy the weekly press of North Carolina will compare most favorably with that of any other State.

DR. McCosh has written a letter to the Sentinel in reply to the attacks made upon him by the Southern papers, in regard to his speech at the National Educational Association at Binghamton, New York.

As the RALEIGH NEWS indulged in some criticisms of Dr. McCosh's remarks, we will do him the justice to publish his reply in our next.

THE Piedmont (N. C.) Press suggests that Pan-dough-ra is entitled to the honor of having first baked bread -Appeal.

As she brought disease into the world and all its woes, we suppose she also bred these infernal pan-aches. -Richmond Enquirer.

The Enquirer is wrong in its supposition. The pan-ic was not brought about in that way, but by the failure of the COOKE, who proved a JAY de-

THE Norfolk Virginian draws a lesson admonition from the great failure of Jay Cooke & Co., a house which "has stood for so many years as a sort of financial Colossus bestriding the Atlantic." The Virginian would admonish "the whole country to observe economy in personal and corporate expenditures, and asks us all in heaven's name to try and "profit by this, at least, as some compensation for the alarm and uncertainty of the present crisis."

Disasters are seldom without wholesome lessons, and financial disasters are the most instructive of all.

THE statement that some of the jokes in the Enquirer's brevity column require three illustrated volumes of explanation, we consider exaggerated, and certainly premature. We have never seen any pun in that column that needed more than two volumes, with diagrams; and for most of them one volume suffices.-Index and Ap-

We shall take up the cudgels in defense of the Enquirer's brevities, which are multum in parvo. They often contain valuable hints, sensible suggestions and pleasant witticisms, condensed in the shortest possible space. The Enquirer adopts the sensible advice of a sharp fellow by the name of HORNER:

"If you'd be an author sage, Think a volume, write a page, And from every page of thine Publish but a single line."

The Wrongs of the Indians Notwithstanding the protest of the Washington Republican against the position of the RALEIGH NEWS, we still insist that Jack and the other Modoc convicts should not be executed under the sentence of a Military Commission. Nor should they be executed until a full investigation is made as to the truth of the dark charges alleged against the agents of the Government. If a tithe of these charges be true, some of these Indian agents should be made to hang along with JACK and his followers.

The impression seems to prevail in certain circles that it is all right and proper to cheat Indians, and to shoot and murder them with impunity; and that when, with the instinct implanted in the worms of the dust, the Indians turn up and punish their persecutors, they forfeit all claim to human sympathy and commiseration, and a war, ruthless, unrelenting, uncivilized, should be waged against the whole tribe.

This unchristian spirit, which had its origin in the old Indian wars during the early settlement of the country, has descended from sire to son, and has become so firmly rooted in the popular heart that the enlightened influences of progress and refinement have not been able to entirely eradicate it.

In some of the Western counties of North Carolina a remnant of the dusky race that was once puissant and formidable in numbers, is still to be found. Their whole number does not probably exceed that of the Modoc tribe, and they have been stripped of their power and their possessions until they have become impotent and harmless. They are few in numbers-uneducated, ignorant and poor, and yet there are some white men living among them who allow no occasion to pass without defrauding and maltreating them. Nor are the Cherokees of North Carolina exempt from the outrages of the Government agents any more than are the Modocs of the West. There are now suits in the Federal Court of the Western District of North Carolina, brought by these Indians to recover a portion of the fund due them by the Government, and of which they have been defrauded by the corruption and rascali- gr part of the fund due to the Cherokees by the Government, and of this sum they received only thirty thousand dollars. Eighteen thousand of the original sum either stuck to the fingers of Government agents or attorneys in the transmission of the money from Washington City to Western North Carolina. The matter will come up before Judge Dick, of the Federal Court, at its next term, and some light will be thrown upon the conduct of the men who have endeavored to fleece the poor Indians out of their rightful Apropos to the subject of Indian wrongs, we publish below, from the Nashville Union and American, an article copied from the Freeman's Journal of New York, concerning the treatment of the Modocs. The article in the Journal was written by a correspondent who signs himself Amigo, who says:

"Personally, 'Captain Jack' was a model of propriety, and would have been an ornament to the Young Men's Christian Association. He was never known to take a glass of liquor, but, on the contrary, was known to whip his men for so doing. He was a man of pleasant appearance, and, and remarkable for his high-toned and dignified manner. He was always agreeable to his white neighbors, and fearlessly stood between them and his savage followers, who feared and respected their chief. Such was Captain Jack prior to the massacre."

"Amigo" proceeds to narrate a series of outrages on the Modocs which he claims led to the murder of Canby. He revives the Ben Wright story of 1852, alluding to him as "a notorious character, living in the Modoc country by sufferance of Indians, who concocted the heliish design of poisoning the entire tribe." Only fortyseven came to his banquet of death and forty of these were killed in cold and forty of these were killed in cold blood. After the war which followed Catholic missionaries went among cern of TAYLOR, MARTIN & CO., will them and so far pacified them, that in 1855 they consented to remove to Shasta, with other friendly Indians, but while under the escort of Federal troops to this new location, their chief, Bill, was shot down by a white desperado concealed in the bush. The missionaries succeeded in preventing them from taking the warpath in consequence of this outrage. Again in 1858, a number of Modocs were waylaid and murdered while returning from Yreka, where they had sold some furs. But the pith of "Amigo's" defence lies in the following statement:

"Notwithstanding all these aggravations—enough to drive a very Quaker into hostility-the Modocs remained peaceable, and in 1864 we find a set of swindlers, in the garb of Government officials, negotiating a treaty with them, the object which was to wrest from the Indians their very best lands and cheat them gen erally, as is the custom of the highly intelligent and civilized when deal ing with savages. The friends of the Indians defeated the confirmation of this treaty by the Senate, and so it was considered a dead letter by the tribe, and of no binding force, since not ratified. Hence they continued in the possession of their usual hunting grounds, to which their right had always been recognized. The landgrabbers and railroad speculators, assisted by their friends in Congress, were not idle, however, and in 1872six years after the alleged execution of the instrument by an X mark on the part of the Indians—the treaty was ratified by the Senate of the Uni ted States and proclaimed by the President in the language of the Supreme Court, as the supreme law of the land! The Indians were allowed two years to recover from the shock and accept the situation, so in 1872 we find a positive order for their removal. by military force, if necessary. They protested | Coffee, Cloves, against the outrage and repudiated the treaty, Jack and his sub-chie's asserting that they never had signed it, and did not know its purport. Says an old settler, who has lived in their country for a quarter of a century past: "The Modoes are known as fearless people, very punctilious, and always keep their word. They pledged one another to die rather remove to the stony and barren tract designated for them. 'Bullet don't hurt much; starve to death hurt heap;' were the words of Jack." was, therefore, well known that bloodshed was to follow any attempt to remove them. Notwithstanding all this, the troops marched to the camp of the Modocs in the dead hour of night, with what object I need not state here. The result, however, was that the Indians, fearing a massacre. fled to the mountains, and from thence inaugurated a raid upon the settlers, whom they considered trespassers. WE notice with pleasure that a number of papers in this State have referred to or copied the communication of a correspondent of the RALEIGH NEWS, in regard to the action of North Carolina in moving first of all the States in favor of the Declaration of American Independence. And we are also gratified that this article is attracting attention in other States, and that the just claim of North Carolina is being everywhere acknowledged. The Washington Republican, which, notwithstanding its rabid politics, occasionally does the handsome thing, comes to the rescue of North Carolina, and comments as follows on the communication of our correspondent: "The good people of North Carolina are just now disturbed by a disussion relative to the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence. Old records have been unearthed and long-forgotten data brought to light again. The result plainly shows that whether or not North Carolina can claim the honor of the Mecklenburg Declaration of the 20th of May, 1775, or the resolutions of the 31st of May of the same year, concerning which the discussion originated, it is neverheless true that the State is still entitled to the distinction of being the first to take official action in favor of the National Declaration of Independence. Referring to this subject, a correspondent of the RALEIGH NEWS shows indisputably that North Carolina, on the 12th day of April, 1776, "empowered her delegates in Conty of the Federal agents. Not long since, the sum of forty eight thousand dollars was sent to this State as sand dollars was sent to this State as icur with the other Colo people of North Carolina as a fact which entitles them to the distinction as among the most progressive, as well as the earliest, lovers of freedom in this country. We agree to the justice of this claim."

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Billous.—If you feel duil, drowsy, debilicated, despondent, have frequent heabache, mouth tasies badly in morning, irregular appetite and tongue coated, you are suffering from Torpid Liver or "Billiousnes." In many cases of "Liver Complaint" only a part of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases, Dr. Pierce's Gelien Medical Discovery has no equal, as it effects perfect cures, leaving the liver strengthened and healthy. Sold by all first-class druggists.

How unnecessary the anguish many persons undergo from rheumatism, gout, neuralgia, toothache and earache. We say unnecessary because the application of Mexican Mustang Liniment to the affected part, or a few drops of it in the ears or tooth, affords instantaneous, and what is better, permanent relief. For cuts wounds, bruises, swellings, and all injuries or oiseases which require treatment ext rnally, this liniment is every where regarded as the most potent and reliable healing agent in existence. For all external injuries or all-ments of horses and cattle, it is infallible.

His Honer, HENRY POTTER, late Judge of the United States Court for the District of North Carolina, gave the following as his opinion of Beckwith's Pills:

"For some ten or twelve years past I have been in the habit of using DR. BECK-WITH'S ANTI-DYSPEPTIC PILLS in my family, and consider them so valuable a domestic medicine, that I never suffer my stock to be exhausted. I have used them with good effect in dyspeptic cases, under stock to be exhausted. I have used them with good effect in dyspeptic cases, under various modifications, and have found them efficacious in relieving from sick Headache, and from all the usual symptoms of functional derangement of the viscera. As an apperient, they are excellent. I have long had the pleasure of an intimate acquaintance with the inventor of these Pills. He is a gentleman of talents, integrity and worth, and he ranks high in the science of medicine and the healing art.

NUMBER NINE.

There are mountains in Carolina of more towering height, but none so surpassingly beautiful as the Roan Mountain in the county of Yancey. This summer it seems to have been the favorite with all the tourists. In order to reach the mountain you can stop at Marion Depot and buggy it to Bakersville, where a four-wheeled vehicle had better be discarded, and a strong pair of knee joints be substi-tuted in lieu thereof. I have philandered up and down much in my time, have "done" the sublime and enjoyed the beautiful, but certainly the mountain villages of Carolina never fail to take me by surprise, lying often in a broad sunny valley, with mountains at exactly the right distance, and a river in its bosom that is as delicate in its windings, and as suited to the charms it wanders among, as a vein in the transparent neck of beauty. The fields all around them look so soft and genial, the grass so sward-like, the bridges so picturesque, the hedges so green, and the trees, no where so many and so luxuriant, so full-grown and majestic, that in the leafy mornings of summer, they seem fair earthly paradises. You have but to ride into one of them, when the sun is blazing for a moment through the firs and then disappearing, when the gorgeous changes of eve are coming over the clouds, the twilight stealing on with its melancholy gray, and when the whippoorwills, birds of evening, are coming abroad like gentlemen in debt, to fancy yourself in the Typee valley, land locked by mountains and perfumed by the warm sea's breath. The glorious mountain air that one breathes in this section is profoundly serene, sunny as the top of Olympus. heavenly pure, holy, and more invigorating than luxurious or balmy: the sort of air that the visiting angels might have brought with them to the tent of Abraham. But the steep and rugged sides of the Roan is before me now with its tiara of blood-red maples flushing like a Turk's banner in the light. The ascent, though seemingly perilous, is easily accomplished, it being a trifle over three miles from the base proper to the top. Here aloft in cloud-land the eye is delighted with the emerald sheen of green and waving grass. The dewy summit of Hymettus, though famed in song and story, must pale before this panorama of beauty. The cattle upon a thousand hills could pasture here. As your eye sweeps over the landscape, ou see the blue smoke curling from happy homes, nestling on the slopes of the numberless mountains grouped around, and wending upward like a wrenth of incense from the low lying valleys at their base. Clouds, like draperies, are forever whirling around the hoary Bluff in a perpetual kaleidoscope of mist and rainbows, and nothing can be more solemn and anthem-like than the moaning of the wind around the beetling crag. Caverns as cool as those of Trophonius are scattered up and down its sides. is abrupt and pre The descent cipitous, and from its long, green, savannah top, you see stretching westward from you the noble State of Tennessee. Stray pearls lie on every rock around. A plain, broad enough for toiling thousands to grow rich in, is landscaped at your feet. As the first gold tint of sunset steals into the sky, the mountain looks of green. purple and white, and the west seems piled up with gold castles, breaking up the horizon with their burnished pinnacles and turrets. The very birds in the trees seem wild with the beauty of the hour, and the whole scene over mountain and vale becomes a heaven of natural delight. An eagle's nest above you with the mother bird screaming her note of defiance, the tiny snow birds covering little giens and waterfalls, wedded and clustered together, make a spot one longs to see and is loath to leave.

There are but few trees on the Roan things all around you, rocks, trees, and those but dwarf specimens. By careful estimate the summit of the mountain has been ascertained to be some six thousand and four hundred feet above sea-level. Though this mountain stands in a section of country as yet uncut by railroads, you must not suppose its hoary desolation is attended by any deprivation of material comfort. Guides and cattle are always on hand—the former intelligent and respectful, the latter robust and well t a ned. The surficted petite sharpening every day, as his lips close over the dainty flesh of the scaleless and speckled mountain trout, as he drains the creamy milk from huge flagons, and as he nibbles the tit-bits from the plump breasts of grouse and pheasants. In close proximity to the Roan stands the Great Bald Mountain, less known from the almost impracticability of its ascent, but from that very fact inviting as a fresh field, wherein to discover new wonders. There are comforts to be looked after in traveling well understood by an old campaigner, and but too often ignored by tyros. I would suggest to my lady friends to leave silk dresses and fashion at home, snugly put away to be donned in saloon and parlor, and to my trousered acquaintance to forego the pleasure of sporting a beaver, while out West. He who crawls to the summit of the Roan or Mitchel, and expects to en-joy the sun-rise or set, had better conclude to do so in overhauls and woolen mittens than in glossy cloth or silken scarf. The wind blows rather cool in these latitudes for starched frills and fancy dresses. You might get rewarded for your devotion to the fickle goddess by a crick in the neck or a pain in the vertebral column. Fairies may trip it on the mountain dew and sleep without danger and without blankets in cold grottoes or on soft boards-it is their vocation, you see, but an appreciation of scene ry, after all the romance, depends upon the amount of animal comfort one is enjoying at the time. No matter how grand and imposing the landscape, if one is hungry, visions of mutton chops and beef-steaks will obstruct the sight, and if one is cold, the angry flush of of the sky, the soughing of the winds the bellowing of the thunder, will only call to mind the burning hearth "Born to love pigs and chickens" may be very unsentimental, but it is perfectly human. I throw out these hints only to induce caution

We make all sizes, capacity 30 to 150 gallons water per minute, working in every concelvable way and by the use of hose which can be attached in hair a minute, these pumps at once become a hand em into of great power, throwing water on the roof of three story buildings, with one band, and they will stand four to six men sately. We have not heard of one of them being overcome by fire, and yet they have been tested by over fifty fires, saving over 550,050 worthof propercy. For ordinary use constant work them easily if set up by our printed directions, and if so set we warrant them 12 months. Our Danbele suction and Ferce Globe Fumps, also invented by J. L. But it has a double ended lever and with four men is a very superior hand engine. The No. 2 Globe Pump is 12 inches in Difference with 1½ suction and 1½ discharge pipe and throws 40 to 100 gallons per minute, according to speed. The No. 3 Globe, 7 inches in diameter. A correspondent at Teheran states that the Shah's European tour has given the liveliest satisfaction throughout Persia. Daily reports of his Majesty's movements were published, and the delight shown at the manner in which he had been everywhere received, and especially in England, was unmistakable. According to the same correspondent, the collection of customs in Persia is to be handed over to Baron Reutor on the 21st March next.

Wilkie Collins, the English novelist, sailed from Liverpool in the steamship Algeria on Saturday last, and is expected to arrive in New York early next week. During his stay in that city he will occupy the same suit of rooms at the Westminster Hotel that were tenanted by Charles Dickens on his last visit to this country.

The final trial of expedients for steam navigation of the canal takes place between Syracuse and Utica before the State commission on the 14th of October. Every month brings new competitors into the field, and the commission is likely to have a difficult task in adjudging the $100,000 prize, if, indeed it is awarded at all.

The War Department estimates for the next fiscal year, it is understood, will be about the same as last, excepting an additional appropriation of $1,500,000 for new and improved armament for our seacoast fortification, which will be submitted to the consideration of Congress by the Secretary of War.

Such a steamer, it is expected, will cross the Atlantic in less than five days.

na, proposes to purchase a farm near Staunton, Va., where he will reside permanently. A commission has been appointed in France to "suggest some remedy for earthquakes." The British press treat with unsparing ridicule the failure of the transatlantic balloon project. Rhode Island is said to be overrun
